

B.C. Rail workers setting up picket lines

VANCOUVER (CP) — A strikeby British Columbia Railway's 2,200 union employees went ahead as scheduled Tuesday, after last-ditch efforts by provincial mediators failed to bring both sides together.

Picket lines went up at the railway's nine yards throughout the province after talks broke down Sunday and the Joint Council of Rail Unions issued 48-hour strike notice.

Under terms of the Essential Services Disputes Act, the provincial government can impose a 90-day cooling-off period in the dispute, but so far Labor Minister John Heinrich has declined to comment.

The railway says the strike will cost the province $1 million a day.

Company spokesman Hugh Armstrong said in a news release that representatives of the joint council met briefly Tuesday afternoon with government mediators but left after refusing to discuss the contentious issue of manning. The council, whose seven unions have been without contracts since July 31, has rejected as unsafe a company proposal to reduce train crews to two workers from three where appropriate.

In addition to manning, there are about 120 unresolved issues, including contract terms, wages and retroactive pay.

Norm Farley, joint council spokesman, said, manning is a trade-related issue that has no place at main-table bargaining.

"B.C. Rail has had more accidents in the past 12 months than the previous 25 years — and now they want to cut back the crew size," he said.

Farley said if manning were the only stumbling block to settlement, the company should give in to union wage requests and there would be an agreement.

Armstrong said B.C. Rail has assured the unions that no current trainmen would be laid off as a result of crew reductions.

He said the railway proposes a formula whereby employees involved would get 25 per cent of crews' wages saved as a result of the reductions for a 10-year period. This would generate more than $20,000 for each trainman, he said.

Armstrong also said both Canadian National and CP Rail have been operating with two-man crews without increased safety hazards.

A full embargo on shipment of all commodities was declared Monday, ending rail shipments for several Interior towns which depend on the railway to move raw goods to market.

The railway had been laboring under a partial shutdown caused by wildcat picketing by some union members.

The last B.C. Rail shutdown was a three-day strike in October, 1978.

Officials in northern B.C. communities say a prolonged shutdown will have a crippling impact on their areas.

Fort Nelson, B.C., Mayor Doug McPhail called on Premier Bill Bennett to use the essential services legislation in the dispute.

B.C. Rail normally moves 600 carloads of commodities a day — 20 per cent of rail business in B.C. — including products from 71 planer mills and sawmills, six veneer and plywood plants, and six pulp mills in the Interior.

The company has offered a 14-per-cent wage increase over 29 months, plus improved fringe benefits. The union is seeking a 30-per-cent increase in a one-year contract.

Iran mourns death with threats

TEHRAN (AP) — At least 50,000 Iranians mourning a slain religious leader marched on the occupied U.S. Embassy today, placed the coffin in front of the mission's iron gates and alternated chanting "Death to America!" with wailing verses from the Koran, the holy book of Islam.

But they made no move to breach the gates and enter the embassy compound, where Moslem militants have been holding 50 U.S. citizens hostage for 46 days demanding the U.S. government get Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi to return to Iran.

The funeral cortege of Hajatollah Mohammad Mofateh and his two bodyguards began at Tehran University, then wound two kilometres to the bolted embassy gates, surrounded by a sea of chanting and wailing people. Four mullahs, or priests, waving pistols were drawn on an open carriage behind the cortege.

The mixture of religious fervor and militancy climaxed when the priests were passed over the heads of the crowd and mounted the speakers' platform on the embassy wall. Large portraits of Mofateh were carried by mourners along with Islamic flags in black.

Mofateh's 22-year-old son Sadeh said: "The CIA kills people who are against the imperialism of America. They killed my father because they want to change the course of the revolution." Many of the women in the crowd, all tightly wrapped in black chadors, wept as Sadeh spoke.

Mofateh, a close associate of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, and two bodyguards were killed Tuesday at Tehran University, where Mofateh was head of the theology department.

Khomeini made a new demand Tuesday for the United States to hand over the shah, calling Panama a U.S. puppet, and one of his close associates said he has ordered his gunmen to murder the former ruler and his wife.

U.S. says the trials would have consequences

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States would consider use of U.S. hostages as witnesses in an Iranian investigation of U.S. activities under the deposed shah to be "public exploitation," a Carter administration spokesman warns.

Iranian authorities should be aware they would bear "full responsibility for any ensuing consequences" if the hostages are forced to participate in a trial, White House press secretary Jody Powell said Tuesday.

The militants who seized the U.S. Embassy in Tehran on Nov. 4 have threatened to place their 50 captives on trial as spies.

Campaign starts

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The stage has been set for a rematch among Joe Clark, Pierre Trudeau and Ed Broadbent on the campaign trail leading to the Feb. 18 election. And all three political leaders seem anxious to resume the battle.

Prime Minister Clark and NDP Leader Broadbent welcomed Tuesday's decision by Trudeau to scrap his retirement plans and to lead the Liberals into his fifth consecutive election.

Clark mocked Trudeau as a remnant from the 1960s and a leader without a platform as he urged voters in southwestern Ontario to give his Progressive Conservative government a majority government that was denied by six seats May 22.

Clark said he is happy the former prime minister decided to lead the Liberals in the election because voters now have clear alternatives.

"It is a choice between a government that wants to build for the future and an opposition that wants to take Canadians back to the past," Clark told about 800 party faithful in London, Ont.

Broadbent, opening his campaign in Toronto, said voters can choose between the long Liberal record of ired failures and a short Conservative record of incompetent bumbling.

The NDP leader warned against public support for Trudeau, saying he wouldn't be around for long. The new prime minister did not merit support because he had shown he could not keep a promise, Broadbent said.

Meanwhile, Liberal strategists jumped to life on learning of the 80-year-old Trudeau's change of heart, prompted by pleas from the party caucus and executive.

Organizers must now plot a campaign strategy aimed at toppling Clark from office after less than seven months in power. Trudeau got a head start Tuesday, telling his news conference the Conservative's regressive energy policies would be a terrible thing for the country.

Trudeau said his decision to rejoin the fray was the single most difficult decision of his life. But he said he felt he had a duty to his party and to the country.

Clark travelled to his

Alberta constituency of Yellowhead today to attend his nomination meeting while Broadbent flew to Halifax in the morning and was to continue to Montreal in the evening where he was expected to continue to blast federal energy policies.

Energy policy becomes issue

OTTAWA (CP) — It will take more than a few months for a new Liberal administration to undo many of the Progressive Conservative government's "regressive" energy policies, Opposition Leader Pierre Trudeau said Tuesday.

Trudeau told a news conference Conservative energy proposals, such as dismantling Petro-Canada, the government oil company, "would have been doing terrible things for Canada."

The 60-year-old former prime minister made the comments after announcing he would scrap his retirement plans and lead the Liberals into his fifth consecutive election campaign.

Asked how long he would stay as party leader after the Feb. 18 election, Trudeau replied he would not step down immediately.

"I don't think the party would want me, nor would I want to run in an election just to serve for two months," he said, adding that many of Prime Minister Clark's energy policies would have to be reversed.

"If a few months conceivably were necessary to right even some of the mistakes of the Clark government, maybe that would be ideal but I don't think that a few months would be enough."

A Liberal government would perhaps expand the role of Petro-Canada in developing new energy supplies at home and abroad, he said.

Clark is to announce Thursday in Vancouver the method his government favors for turning the profitable portions of the Crown corporation over to the private sector. But a final decision must await the new Parliament and a new government, Clark said.

After the customers and police were gone, the robber left with $80, including $29 he had collected in sales while acting as clerk.

Robber receives the cops

BAKERSFIELD, Calif.

(AP) — A robber tied up a convenience store clerk in a cold storage locker, then waited on customers and told police that a tip they had received about a holdup was false, authorities said.

The clerk, Bruce McDowell, 19, said he was accused by an armed man wearing a black stocking mask Monday and was left in the cold storage locker with his wrists bound.

The bandit pulled off his mask and waited on customers for 20 minutes, police said. He told officers responding to a citizen's report of a robbery in progress that the citizen had been mistaken.

After the customers and police were gone, the robber left with $80, including $29 he had collected in sales while acting as clerk.

Mandatory retirement criticized by report

Forces some into poverty

Pension contribution hikes wanted

OTTAWA (CP) — Mandatory retirement at age 65 often amounts to sentencing people to poverty and should be abolished, says a special Senate committee report released today.

The report also said employees and employers should double their contributions to the Canada or Quebec pension plans so pension cheques can rise to about $450 a month, compared with the current maximum of $218.06.

The report, entitled Retirement Without Tears and prepared by a committee of 22 senators after almost two years of public hearings, said forcing people to drop out of the workforce at 65 is discriminatory and ignores their desires and abilities.

Noting that retirement can account for as much as one-third of a person's adult life, the report said:

"What a terrible thing it is if this period is spent in poverty, aimlessness and loneliness when there are such rich opportunities for companionship or leisure or work."

Working adults should neither be forced out of their jobs at 65 nor to remain employed if they wish to retire early.

The committee said individuals should be able to choose when they want to retire, subject to common sense rules about competence and physical fitness.

It proposed that the age of mandatory retirement be increased by one year at the beginning of each year for five years by amending pension plans and retirement rules. At the end of that five years, the concept of mandatory retirement at any age should be abandoned.

Based on 1978 averages, men can expect to live to 78 and women to 83.

The committee also concluded that rather than revise and extend what it described as an inadequate private pension system, the Canada-Quebec pension plan should be the prime vehicle for reforming the Canadian pension system.

Under the existing formula, employees and employers each contribute 1.8 per cent of eligible earnings for a total of 3.6 per cent.

The committee recommended employers and employees each contribute four per cent to achieve a new total of eight per cent. This would require an increase of 2.2 per cent for employees and employers and the report suggested the increase be phased in over two years.

The increases in benefits would be introduced over a five-year period starting from the end of the year that the eight-per-cent level of contributions is in effect.

Liberal Senator David Croll (Ontario), known as a vigorous campaigner against mandatory retirement, headed the special committee which received 59 briefs from groups ranging from students, labor and business to pension, teacher and medical organizations.

The report was to have been tabled Monday in the Commons, but the defeat of the Progressive Conservative government and the dissolution of Parliament last week made that impossible.

However, the 79-year-old Croll received permission from Senate leaders to make the report public anyway.

The committee stressed that implementation of its recommendations do not involve a raid on the public purse.

The report defended the overhaul of the public pension system on economic grounds, saying the extra costs to employers and employees should be manageable.

It also said a serious handicap during inflationary times is that many private plans do not index pensions to the cost of living, meaning a greater need for better public plans.

For employees earning $10,000 a year, the committee's recommendation involves an additional contribution to the government plan of $220 a year. That should "should not be intolerable" for either employer or employee, especially as those contributions are tax deductible.

"It is the only way to lift many of the Canadians who live in retirement out of poverty," the report added.

It warned that if employers and employees do not now assume the cost of an expanded public pension system, society will eventually have to assume those costs through increased taxes to bolster the pension system or pay welfare benefits.

"The aging population, with its increasing political power, will not tolerate indefinitely a life of poverty in retirement."

Citing 1977 statistics that show 48 per cent of unmarried women over 65 have annual incomes of $3,000 or less, the report also called for drastic action to help the growing number of elderly women subsisting on incomes below the poverty line.

The committee proposed that pensions paid by the Canada-Quebec pension plan be shared 50-50 between husband and wife as the best method of providing pensions to housewives.

If contributions to the plan were increased as the committee recommended, between five million and six million women should receive reasonably adequate pensions, it added.

In 1979, the average income of women from the Canada-Quebec pension plan was $1,013 a year. The amount is small because women generally earn less than men or work parttime for low pay and do not qualify to participate in the plan. Since 1978, a person had to earn $1,100 a year to qualify.

The committee also said women employed by their husbands in unincorporated businesses or farms should be permitted to contribute to the government pension plan.

The report played down the concerns expressed by some Canadians that the cost of supporting a growing elderly population will be an intolerable burden on the labor force.

In 1978, there were 2.1 million persons over the age of 65 in Canada and it is estimated that number will increase to 3.4 million by 2001. As a result of the baby boom after the Second World War, the number could climb to six million or more in 50 years.

Despite the figures, the committee said the aging of Canada's population should not be cause for alarm because the size of the younger dependent group under the age of 17 will be declining at the same time. Therefore, costs in areas such as education will be reduced substantially.

"The increasing cost of supporting the older dependent population should be more than offset by the decreasing cost of supporting the younger dependent population," the report said.

It predicted, however, the economy will face adjustment problems, such as diverting the savings from lower education costs to increased expenditures required for social security and public pensions.

CP Air to give discount

MONTREAL (CP) — CP Air announced Tuesday it will give away discount vouchers to passengers on its regular transcontinental flights between Jan. 14 and Feb. 29.

The vouchers are good for a one-third price reduction on round-trip economy fares on transcontinental flights from March 1 to June 22.

"There are no strings attached on the issuance of the vouchers," vice-president Dick Huisman said in a statement.

The vouchers will not be given to passengers on the lower-cost Skybus service, and cannot be used for charter class flights or other reduced-price tickets, such as senior citizens' or children's fares. The plan is subject to approval by the Canadian Transport Commission.

Ralph agrees with Sue

EDMONTON (CP) — You've heard of the boy named Sue. Well, Edmonton has a girl named Ralph.

Her name is Ralph Sneed. And she agrees with the line in the song by Johnny Cash: "Life ain't easy for a boy named Sue" — or in her case, a girl named Ralph. Ralph is the name her mother had settled on for her fourth child.

It didn't matter that the child was a girl. Ralph was the name her mother liked. But for Mrs. Sneed, the name Ralph has meant problem after problem.

"I've had had a lot of hard times with this name."

Convincing people that her name is indeed Ralph is the biggest and most common problem, she said.

NDP MEET FOR NOMINATIONS

The federal wing of the Skeena New Democratic Party will hold its nominating meeting for the Feb. 18 general election in Terrace on Saturday, Jan. 5.

The convention, which is expected to nominate incumbent MP Jim Fulton as its candidate, will begin at 2:30 p.m. at the Terrace Hotel. The meeting will be open to the public.

Fulton predicts backlash

Jim Fulton (NDP-Skeena) said Tuesday there will be a strong backlash from voters over Pierre Trudeau's decision to continue as Liberal party leader.

"There will be an enormous public backlash because of his earlier resignation," Fulton told the Herald in a telephone interview. "It is going to be very difficult for the Liberals anywhere west of Ottawa." In criticizing Trudeau's turnaround, Fulton explained it was "like a kid's footrace, where the kid enters only if he wins."

The Skeena MP said the split in the Liberal party over Trudeau's leadership had been visible even among the caucus in Ottawa.

NEWS BRIEFS

SALISBURY (Reuters) — The Rhodesian government said outgoing Prime Minister Abel Muzorewa will not fly to London today to sign a ceasefire agreement with his Patriotic Front foes.

The British-sponsored effort to end the guerrilla war hit a last-minute snag when Muzorewa's administration challenged a British concession to the Patriotic Front.

Silas Mundawarara, deputy prime minister in Muzorewa's outgoing government, told reporters that provisions to increase the number of guerrilla assembly points can only be negotiated in Salisbury, not in London.

A government spokesman said the Bishop will not be going to London today because Britain has not fully clarified its concession, allowing the guerrillas an additional assembly point under ceasefire arrangements.

Some Catholics upset

TORONTO (CP) — Roman Catholic theologians in Toronto are upset by the Vatican ordering the removal of Rev. Hans Kung from his teaching post at West Germany's University of Tübingen.

"I've always disagreed with him on many issues, but I'll always defend his right to express his views," said Gregory Baum, professor of religious studies at the University of Toronto.

He said ordering Kung removed from his teaching post at the university's Catholic college because of his challenges to the doctrine of papal infallibility is not the way to solve theological controversies.

"We need good arguments and discussions, not authoritarianism."

Jesuit theologian David Stanley at University of Toronto said "there has to be some kind of academic freedom within the church and elsewhere. This seems to indicate that there isn't. It looks rather ominous."

Principal gets reprimand

OTTAWA (CP) — An elementary school principal received a "slap on the hand" from school board officials Tuesday for intentionally broadcasting the strapping of students over the school's public address system.

Principal Margaret McGrath originally denied she intentionally broadcast the Dec. 5 strapping of four pupils who had been caught throwing snowballs on school property. The sound of the strapping and the cries of the students could be heard throughout Georges Vanier school.

Trustees of the Ottawa-Carleton separate school board decided Tuesday night to have a superintendent deliver a verbal reprimand to Mrs. McGrath. The action came after the board heard from other principals and irate parents who have been critical of her action since children came home crying the day of the incident.

Baby goes to mom's twin

LONDON (AP) — For just a moment, Lynda Elson nuzzled her newborn daughter, stroking the baby's tiny fingers and toes.

Then, fighting back tears, she gave her child away — to her twin sister, who was despondent after nine years of childless marriage.

"There were not many people who understood what I was doing; but you can't blame them," Mrs. Elson said after she and her husband John — already the parents of two girls — decided to give the baby to Mrs. Elson's sister and brother-in-law, Jean and Roger Machin.

The story of the "Priceless Gift of Love" — the Oct. 5 birth was disclosed this month by the London Daily Mirror — is causing controversy among British adoption officials and parents over whether the sacrifice will end in heartbreak.

Soldiers shoot leftists

SAN SALVADOR (AP) — Soldiers killed 25 leftists who opened fire at them Tuesday from a coffee plantation the militants seized, El Salvador's military junta announced.

The government also said four leftists were wounded and 16 captured in the shootout, and that there were an unspecified number of army casualties.

The guerrillas occupied the plantation 50 kilometres

west of San Salvador on Monday demanding higher wages for workers and other benefits. The junta said the soldiers asked the leftists to leave peacefully, but the leftists opened fire.

It said the leftists belonged to the February 28 Popular League, the same group holding a U.S. Peace Corps worker and 12 Salvadorians hostage in San Salvador since last Wednesday.

OPEC can't agree on price

CARACAS (AP) — The members of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries were unable to agree on a unified price scale after two days of argument, and it appears that their winter meeting would end today where it started — with each member charging as much as it can get or thinks prudent.

Humberto Calderon Berti, Venezuela's oil minister, said that price negotiations have been "very difficult" since the 13 delegations began meeting Monday. He said OPEC's economic commission had proposed the conference set a base price of $24 to $25 U.S. a barrel and that "it would be good for OPEC to reach an agreement."

But the issue of how high members could go over the benchmark price — that for light crude oil from Saudi Arabia — concerned many ministers. Sheikh Ahmed Zaki Yamani of Saudi Arabia called the issue "a very serious matter."

Blood split oil dollars

BLOOD RESERVATION, Alta. (CP) — Blood Indians voted overwhelmingly Tuesday to pad their wallets with an extra $2,000 apiece from windfall revenues earned on the sale of petroleum rights.

About 1,500 residents of Canada's largest reserve voted by a 10-to-1 margin to divide the $11 million equally among every man, woman and child of the 5,400-member band.

The money represents only half of the amount earned in an August sale of exploration permits and oil and natural gas leases. Under the Indian Act, the other half must go to the band's capital account in Ottawa.

In approving the referendum question, the Bloods rejected suggestions by their elected council and band manager Joe Scott that the funds go towards assisting senior citizens, student bursaries, housing, and subsidies for small businessmen and farmers.

Two of five unsure

NEW YORK (AP) — Almost two out of five U.S. citizens are worried they won't be able to pay their home heating bills this winter, an Associated Press-NBC News poll says.

Almost half of those who use fuel oil for heating are afraid they can't afford to keep warm, while slightly more than one-third of those who heat with natural gas or electricity are similarly concerned.

Youth blows self up

PULLMAN, Wash. (AP) — An 18-year-old youth died in an explosion from a homemade bomb as Washington State University police tried to persuade him to leave a dormitory room.

Two officers were injured and three students were sent to hospital in the explosion Tuesday which killed John Stickney, a Mercer Island, Wash., resident.

Council gets a raise

Pay raises for Terrace aldermen and the mayor was the highlight of the first committee report to council since the new committee restructuring was announced by Terrace Mayor Dave Maroney last week.

The recommendations by the finance, general government and protective services committee approved Monday evening by council, call for a 6.4 per cent pay raise for the mayor and a 6.2 per cent hike for the six aldermen.

Keith Norman, the treasurer for the District of Terrace said Tuesday the $8,880 awarded to the mayor and the $3,600 remuneration for aldermen "is in line with the going rate now."

"It is quite comparable, I know of only two northwestern municipalities that are higher," he remarked.

The committee report also suggested hotel bills for aldermen on council business be picked up by the municipality. The daily allowance for delegates was dropped from $50 to $40, insofar as the hotel bill will no longer come out of the expense allowance.

A committee recommendation to shelve the plan to funnel business licence revenues into a special fund for the beautification of Terrace was received approval. Committee chairman Helmut Giesbrecht said any such funding should come out of general revenues.

There was a recommendation to give a grant of $100 or one cent per resident to the W.A.C. Bennett Memorial Fund. It was noted though, that other municipalities were contributing much less, in the range of .06 cents for each resident. The issue was finally put to the committee of the whole for discussion.

More mud slides are feared

VANCOUVER (CP) — Fears of additional mudslides have resulted in the evacuation of 75 families in the Vancouver area while a full in heavy rains resulted in receding floodwaters on Tuesday.

The rain, however, made unstable a hillside undermined by a creek that has washed thousands of tons of mud on suburban Port Moody and an apartment block was evacuated, bringing the total number of families homeless to 70.

The other five families evacuated are in North Vancouver where a mudslide slammed into two houses on Monday. Officials said the stability of the hillside was in doubt and ordered three additional families out of their homes on Tuesday.

Meanwhile, in Port Moody, city officials have criticized the Provincial Emergency Program (PREP) for not getting its hands dirty since the mountain of mud slid through the area Friday night.

Mayor Ian Young said Tuesday there appears to be a breakdown of communication and his small city at the east end of Burrard Inlet has been without earth-moving equipment, pumps and the men to run them.

Young said the fight against the mud has been waged primarily by volunteers working alongside city engineering crews and the provincial highways department and many of the men are exhausted.

Young, a PREP disaster co-ordinator, said the agency would have rolled up its sleeves "had the situation warranted it."

Municipalities have the first responsibility to react, he said, and "while they are doing so, we are just observers."

But Mayor Young was not pleased with that explanation.

"You can do just about anything for 24 or 36 hours but then you reach the point of exhaustion," he said. "And we didn't have replacements."

Ian Young said it is up to the city to request PREP's help. Mayor Young said he thought he did that when he sought aid from Provincial Secretary Evan Wolfe who toured the site Monday.

Meanwhile, M.L.A. Stu Leggatt (NDP — Coquitlam-Port Moody), who toured the area Tuesday, wants the provincial government to declare Port Moody a disaster area. Leggatt said he also wants a claims office set up immediately for residents whose homes were damaged by the slides.

Wolfe has said the government does not intend to invoke the Emergency Measures Act but will help pay cleanup costs and some aid also will be available to homeowners.

On Vancouver Island, 130 persons have been evacuated from their houses as rivers in the Nanaimo area threatened to spill over their banks. Others were evacuated from a trailer camp in Parksville, further north.

Meanwhile, forecasters said the rain, which stopped late Tuesday, will resume today but only as periodic showers.

In North Vancouver, Doris Chu said she and her son, John, are lucky to be alive after the mudslide hit their home Monday, wiping out an attached car port and two cars.

Kickbacks costly

VANCOUVER (CP) — A former Vancouver restaurant owner who collected kickbacks from loans issued by a branch of the Bank of Montreal in New Westminster, B.C., was sentenced in absentia to six months in prison Tuesday and fined $18,000 for tax evasion by a provincial court judge.

William Dedemadis, 46, a central figure in a loan scheme referred to as the Greek Connection, was convicted of evading taxes in 1973 and 1974 on income of $58,000 from loan kickbacks. Judge Erik Bendrodt was told Dedemadis had left for Greece and did not intend to return to Canada.

He was president of D. B. Design Construction Ltd. and owner of restaurants in Vancouver's Gastown, Crescent Beach in Surrey and New Westminster.

The sentencing follows a three-year investigation by federal tax investigators. Police are still investigating the bank loans, but no charges have been laid.

Eight men of Greek origin testified how they were referred to the bank by Dedemadis for loans varying from $20,000 to $50,000. The men said that after being issued the loans, they paid Dedemadis commissions ranging from $5,000 to $20,000.

Although referral fees are legal, they are not a normal bank practice for relatively small loans to individuals. It is illegal for a bank employee to accept secret commissions from loans.

After noting that Dedemadis has several previous convictions for income tax offences, Judge Bendrodt described the offence as a "wilful and flagrant disregard for the Income Tax Act and its provisions."

The term "Greek Connection" was used by Bank of Montreal officials in their investigation of alleged irregularities in personal loan procedures involving about 45 persons of Greek descent applying for loans at the New Westminster branch.

After the controversy surfaced in early 1977, members of the Greek community picketed the bank's offices, charging the bank with shoddy loan practices and taking kickbacks on loans. Last March, a B.C. Supreme Court judge granted the Bank of Montreal a permanent injunction to halt bad publicity about the alleged loan swindles and issued the loans, they paid Dedemadis commissions

EDITORIAL

Terrace district council members are to be commended for taking steps to tighten dog control for this area.

While this newspaper has made much of the problem in recent months, it is not because the problem has suddenly become worse or because we have nothing more entertaining to deal with.

The need for better control of animals and citizenry that that is more aware of their responsibilities is part of the maturing process that Terrace is undergoing.

This is no longer the rural Northern town. It is a city and can move toward being the centre of a growing and developing area.

Taking responsibility for the care and control of dogs is just one of the changes this city is going to have to face.

Council should be commended
because their decision is going to mean spending taxpayers money on something that can't easily be pointed to as a monument of council's work. Council members may have to face some immediate hostility from those who find their dogs picked up. The council has, in spite of any criticism that may be levelled at it, made the right move.

Now let us see what Thornhill can do about the same kind of problem they have in their area.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Sir,

In 1938 about 1200 unemployed men seized the post office, art gallery and hotel Georgia in Vancouver. In their demand for work they occupied the building for thirty days. The sitdown had wide and popular support from the people of British Columbia.

I am currently researching a documentary film on this event. For many young people this will be their first introduction to the 1938 sitdown. As such a film will rely heavily on historic pictures I would be interested in looking at any photographs, regardless of size or condition, that show the sitdown, RPWU marches or the eviction from the post office.

I am also trying to locate motion picture film of the sitdown and 1930's in general. It has been said that there was a newsreel cameraman filming on the morning of the eviction from the post office. This film record of a major historical event in British Columbia history has since been lost from public view.

Any aid in finding this film
or any other photographs, memories or reflections on the Vancouver post office
sitdown of 1938 would be of great value in again bringing this event to public attention.

I hope you will be able to publish the above letter as space in your newspaper permits.

With gratitude,
Richard Payment

Birthright clarifies its stand

Dear Sir:

In view of the article and letters in recent editions of your paper, it is time to set the record straight concerning Birthright, and the services which Birthright does and does not offer.

The Terrace Chapter of Birthright is one of over 300 Birthright groups throughout North America which have provided help for an estimated 100,000 women and girls who were pregnant and distressed. Birthright was founded in Toronto in 1968, and the guiding principle of every Birthright Chapter is that "it is the right of every pregnant woman to give birth, and the right of every child to be born."

The aim as stated in Article 2 of our Charter is "to maintain a crisis centre where any pregnant girl or woman, wed or unwed, may find help as near as her telephone."

Birthright is independent, non-political and non-sectarian, and operates on financial donations and by fund raising through bake sales. Our help is free and confidential.

Volunteers are from all walks of life, and include registered nurses, certified teachers, clerical workers and home makers. They have attended workshops where resource people included Dr. Aranas, the psychiatrist, doctors from Terrace and Kitimat and representatives from Human Resources. Birthright volunteers seek to offer person to person help, employing the use of all community services. Every woman and girl who believes she is pregnant is strongly encouraged to see her doctor. Dr. Aranas gives advice on identifying problem areas and which cases to refer to the professional services. All matters concerning adoption and adoption procedures are referred to the legally authorized agencies.

To answer the question of why Birthright "does not do something about birth control information," the Birthright Charter states in Article 3 that all chapters
"shall refrain from offering or giving advice on the subjects of contraception or sterilization." This thus enables us to focus all our energies on helping the distressed woman or teenager who is already pregnant. There are many groups available to give birth control information, whereas Birthright offers help to women who are pregnant.

Birthright recognizes that the home and school are the usual places for a teenager who is pregnant to seek help. However, believing that we do have valuable services to offer, we wish to be available to any girl who in the moment of crisis feels that they have nowhere else to turn. This is why Birthright wished to make its services known in the high schools.

From previous experience we know that our presentations have been warmly welcomed by both teenagers and their parents. The advertisement which we wished to place in the year book was considered tasteful and helpful by parents of high school students who saw it.

Fran Gibbons is not a member of Birthright and the views expressed in her letter to the Editor in no way reflect those held by Birthright.

Finally, in summary, Birthright is available to help any woman or teenager who is distressed by her pregnancy. Maternity and baby clothes, arrangements for a place to live as well as community resource information and referral are some of the practical helps which we can provide.

Yours faithfully,
Lesley Nelms

"Other than that, how did you like my chicken Kiev?"

Our drug laws make no sense

There are questions being asked about the heroin treatment centre at Brannan Lake near Nanaimo
after the death of an inmate there.

In addition to the death of an inmate there, addicts who have undergone treatment at the centre have complained about problems at the institution.

The Brannan Lake Treatment Centre was part of the Social Credit government's ill-fated Compulsory Heroin Treatment Plan. The government's scheme was criticized from the beginning. A court ruling saying the provincial government didn't have the authority to legislate in the area put an end to the law which effectively made it illegal to be a heroin addict.

The now defunct law meant that having heroin in your body was enough to send you to the treatment centre for the supposed cure. The Vancouver narcotics squad used it as a means to harass street addicts into leaving town. For the most part they returned to the small towns they came from. This meant that the rural areas suddenly were faced with the petty theft and con games that go with the illegal drug trade.

Small town RCMP detachments were faced with break-ins and burglaries and even holdups they had never had before.

Meanwhile, the treatment centre was nearly empty.
The government spent millions of dollars on it and there were more staff than patients. It was doomed to failure because the government overestimated its authority and doesn't understand the problem.

After the legislation was chucked out by the courts
the government announced the centre would stay open for voluntary admissions. The government also started to look into ways that provincial court judges could order heroin addicts to go to the centre or off the centre as an alternative to jail.

What the authorities overlooked is that it is not the drug addiction itself that is the concern.
Because the drugs are illegal the prices are high.
The high prices lead to the myriad of other crimes that provide the money the junkie needs. It is those crimes which affect our society. As a result of the high cost of the illicit drugs, drug addicts ignore their health. The poor health of the addict, brought about through the high cost of the drug, adds to cost.

Drug addiction is not a crime in itself, nor is it essentially a health problem. The addiction is not as much to the drug, because any drug will do. The addiction is to the search for the high. It is the lifestyle that is addicting.

Throughout my time in Victoria and Vancouver a number of the individuals I knew there became involved in the drug culture.

It is a society complex and ordered as the one which you and I move around in.

The junkie has to work hard too. I you think that being a street addict is a matter of laying about,

EDITOR'S JOURNAL
BY GREG

stoned on drugs, oblivious to the world, then you are sadly mistaken. It is life of constant hustling. Most junkies have to come up with between $50 and $100 in cash a day. You have to be pretty innovative and energetic to do that.

It is the amount of involvement that is necessary to live that lifestyle that is the key.

A junkie's life means total commitment. It means he or she doesn't have time for anything else. Personal comfort, sex, success at anything other than scoring drugs becomes secondary.

The score is all.
Junkies have abdicated from all the normal social responsibilities. This means they have left the world that you and I know and moved into a world that is to them easier to deal with because the goals are easier to identify.

Drug addiction is a social problem. The people who have become involved in the shadowy world of undercover dealing, and the mystique of clandestine fix have renounced all our conventions. They live an amoral existence. It is more exciting to them than our day to day drudgery.

You can not force an alcoholic to quit drinking against his or her will. Laws and penalties will not deal with drug addicts. Large treatment centres such as Brannan Lake will only be a monument to the stupidity and naivety of the politicians. A drug addict who wants to quit will do so. To the drug addict who makes that decision I say all the more power. We should offer that person all the help in job training and relearning social skills he or she wants. The cost is easily recovered through the income tax they'll pay working like you and I rather than stealing.

I think we should put the money we spend on drug enforcement into dealing with the violent crimes, the white collar criminal and what would be left of organized crime.

Give the junkie his few ounces of white powder and let him live a life of total intoxication without the melodramatic cops and robbers situation.

Many would get bored and quit. It's no fun to run if no one will chase you.

Think of the social good that could be done for those who want and need it if we abandoned the relentless search for drug dealers. Consider the kick in the teeth it would be to those who make untold millions on the trade.

I say that trying to enforce useless drug laws is about as self defeating and as destructive as the lifestyle it forces the junkies to live. Turn Brannan Lake Treatment Centre into a resort or a health spa.

OTTAWA OFFBEAT

BY RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — The Liberals for years have told us that
"Tory times are hard times."

It may or may not be so.

But for sure — on the word of Postmaster General
John Fraser — Tory times are serious times.

Or if you care to look at it another way, Tory times are funny times.

Appearing before a Commons Committee the other day Mr. Fraser, a Vancouver MP, told the Honorable Members that they must cease and desist making jokes about his Post Office.

With a straight face he told them they weren't to laugh at the postal service.

As if anyone would give out with so much as a chuckle over the non-service of the Post Office which last year ran $485,563,000 in the red.

Or smile over a letter taking a week to go between Toronto and Ottawa.

What's to laugh about some of those funny fellows in the postal terminals using packages clearly marked
"Fragile, Handle With Care" as footballs in a friendly time-killing soccer match?

Or who could squeeze a giggle out of the capers of former Postal Workers President Joe Davidson — except for his Caesar-Trudeau style haircut — when fed up with the taxpayers bleating about the many mail strikes he had called he delivered himself of that immortal motto of the Post Office: "The hell with the public?"

Was it laughable when the current Postal Workers President Jean Claude Parrott defied the ukase of Parliament and advised his membership to ignore its back to work order?

The court didn't seem amused even if some usually rational but impressionable females seem to find Jean Claude "cute."

But back to John Fraser and his strictures against making jokes about the unfunny postal service.

You'll remember that he's a member of a party, indeed of the Conservative Cabinet, that promised — before the election of course — to reduce government spending and slice some of the fat from the obscenely obese public service.

Well, some of the Honorable Members of the Committee suggested to Mr. Fraser that he might serve both these ends if he were to pare the postal staff
by a mere two per cent.

After all the Conservatives had promised to slice 60,000 jobs from the federal payroll.

Mr. Fraser not only refused, he declared that he wouldn't "tolerate" such an outrageous idea, since it would mean 3,600 being deprived of feeding at the postal trough.

Fraser not only lectured the Honorable Members on the evils of laughing at the laughable postal service, but instructed them to take a "constructive and positive attitude" towards it.

After all, he reminded them, competition was tough with all those fast and dependable courier services guaranteeing 24-hour delivery and actually providing it.

He forgot to mention that the private couriers moved smartly into the vacuum when the Post Office went on all those strikes.

The Postmaster General has no sense of the ridiculous.

He sees nothing funny about the department's "guaranteed" service that can take up to 10 days to get a first class letter from one end of town to the nothing.

Nothing amusing about those stripes they painted on the post boxes, giving the bemused taxpayers a choice of slow-motion service.

And pity the poor Honorable Members when Mr.
Fraser brings the Post Office estimates before the Commons.

It'll be torture for them to keep a straight face when Fraser tells them what a great job the postal workers are doing.

They used to laugh on the outside to keep from crying on the inside.

Now, if we can't laugh about the state of the postal service, Mr. Fraser better be prepared to see us in tears.

POET'S CORNER

THE SPIRIT OF CHRISTMAS
By T.A.M. McKay

Now is the time we celebrate the birth of our Savior,
By giving gifts to those that we favor.
We spend our money trying to give great cheer,
But, what happens that rest of the year?
We slip and backslide, speaking harsh at one another,
Forgetting once more that we are sister and brother.
Let us all ask God to help us remember,
That each and everyone is a Family member.
The Spirit of Christmas means cheerfully giving.
May we all keep it, all through our daily living.

Away in a Manger
 A-way in a manger,
 No crib for a bed,
 The little Lord Jesus
 Laid down His sweet head,
 The stars in the sky—
 Looked down where He lay,
 The little Lord Jesus
 A-sleep in the hay.

The cattle are lowing,
 The poor Baby wakes,
 But little Lord Jesus
 No crying He makes,
 I love Thee Lord Jesus,
 Look down from the sky,
 And stay by my cradle—
 Till morning is nigh.

Be near me, Lord Jesus,
 I ask Thee to stay
 Close by me forever,
 And Love me, I pray,
 Bless all the dear children
 In Thy tender care,
 And take us to heaven,
 To live with Thee there.

Jingle Bells
 Dashing through the snow
 In a one-horse open sleigh,
 O'er the fields we go,
 Laughing all the way;
 Bells on bob-tail ring,
 Making spirit bright;
 What fun it is to ride and sing
 A sleighing-song tonight!

Jingle bells, jingle bells!
 Jingle all the way!
 Oh, what fun it is to ride
 In a one horse open sleigh!

I Heard the Bells

on Christmas Day
 I heard the bells on Christmas day
 Their old familiar carols play,
 And wild and sweet the words repeat
 Of peace on earth, good will to men.
 I thought how, as the day had come,
 The bell-ringers of all Christendom
 Had rolled along that unbroken song
 Of peace on earth, good will to men.

And in despair I bowed my head:
 "There is no peace on earth," I said,
 "For hate is strong, and mocks the song
 Of peace on earth, good will to men."
 Then pealed the bells more loud and deep:
 "God is not dead, nor doth he sleep;
 The wrong shall fall, the right prevail,
 With peace on earth, good will to men."

Till ringing, singing on its way,
 The world revolved from night to day,
 A voice, a chime, a chant sublime,
 Of peace on earth, good will to men.

Silent Night

Not a creature is stirring. The fire is glowing. The day we've awaited is drawing near. As we join in the festivities of Christmas, we extend our hearty thanks to the customers who have been so good to us during the past year. To all, a very merry holiday season and the happiest of New Years!

Merry Christmas

These carolers' glad refrain helps express our season's sentiments. May the holidays be merry and bright in the happiest of Yuletide traditions. To the many friends that have given us the pleasure of their patronage... our sincere gratitude.

O Come, All Ye Faithful

O come, all ye faithful,
Joyful and triumphant,
Come ye, O come ye to Bethlehem,
Come and behold Him,
Born the King of angels:
Refrain:
O come, let us adore Him,
O come, let us adore Him,
O come, let us adore Him,
Christ the Lord.

Sing, choirs of angels,
Sing in exultation,
Sing all ye citizens of heaven above,
Sing ye, All glory
To God in the highest!
Yea, Lord, we hail Thee,
Born this happy morning;
Jesus, to Thee be glory given,
Word of the Father,
Nor in flesh appearing.

While Shepherds Watched

While shepherds watched their flocks by night,
All seated on the ground,
The angel of the Lord came down
And glory shone around.

"Fear not," he said (for mighty dread Had seized their troubled mind);
"Glad tidings of great joy I bring
To you and all mankind.

"To you in David's town this day
Is born of David's line,
A Saviour, who is Christ the Lord;
And this shall be the sign:

"The heavenly Babe you there shall find
To human view displayed,
All meanly wrapped in swathing bands,
And in a manger laid."

Thus spake the seraph; and forthwith
Appeared a shining throng
Of angels, praising God who thus Addressed their joyful song:

"All glory be to God on high,
And to the earth be peace;
Good will henceforth come from heaven to men,
Begin and never cease."

The First Noel

The first Noel the angel did say,
Was to certain poor shepherds in fields
where they lay;
In fields where they lay keeping their sheep
On a cold winter's night that was so deep.

Refrain:
Noel, Noel, Noel
Born is the King of Israel.

They looked up and saw a star
Shining in the east beyond their far,
And to the earth it gave great light,
And so it continued both day and night.

And by the light of that same star
Three wise men came from country far;
To seek for a King was their intent,
And to follow the star wherever it went.

This star drew nigh to the northeast,
O'er Bethlehem it took its rest,
And there it did both stop and stay
Right over the place where Jesus lay.

Then entered in those wise men three,
Full reverently upon their knees,
And offered there in His presence
Their gold and myrrh and frankincense

Then let us all with one accord
Sing praises to our heavenly Lord;
That hath made heaven and earth of nought,
And with His blood mankind hath bought.

God Rest You Merry Gentlemen

God rest you merry, gentlemen,
Let nothing you dismay,
Remember, Christ, our Saviour,
Was born on Christmas day;
To save us all from Satan's power,
When we were gone astray.

In Bethlehem, in Jewry,
This blessed Babe was born,
And laid within a manger;
Upon this blessed morn;
The which His mother Mary
Did nothing take in scorn.

From God, our heavenly Father,
A blessed angel came,
And unto certain shepherds
Brought tidings of the same:
How that in Bethlehem was born
The son of God by name.

The shepherds at those tidings,
Rejoiced much in mind,
And left their flocks afeeling,
In tempest, storm, and wind,
And went to Bethlehem straight-way,
The Son of God to find.

Chorus:
O tidings of comfort and joy,
O tidings of comfort and joy,
O tidings of comfort and joy.

Christ was Born on Christmas Day

Christ was born on Christmas Day,
Weathe the holly, twine the bay;
Christ-as-na-tus-bo-di-e;
The Babe, the Son, the Holy One of Mary.

He is born to set us free,
He is born our Lord to be,
Ex Ma-ri-a Vir-gi-nae;
The God, the Lord, by all adord forever.

Let the bright red berries glow,
Everywhere in goodly show,
Christ-as-na-tus-bo-di-e;
The Babe, the Son, the Holy One of Mary.

Christian men, rejoice and sing,
Tis the birthday of a King,
Ex Ma-ri-a Vir-gi-nae;
The God, the Lord, by all adord forever.

My Two Front Teeth

All I want for Christmas is my
Two front teeth
My two front teeth
My two front teeth.

All I want for Christmas is my
Two front teeth,
The I can with you
Merry Christmas.

Joy to the World

Joy to the world! The Lord has come,
Let earth receive her King;
Let every heart prepare Him room,
And heav'n and nature sing—
And heav'n and nature sing,
And heav'n and heav'n — and nature sing.

Joy to the world! The Saviour reigns;
Let men their songs employ,
While fields and — floods — rocks, hills and plains
Repeat the sounding joy—
Repeat, repeat — the sounding joy.

He rules the world with truth and grace,
And makes the nations prove
The glories of His righteousness,
And wonders of His love—
And wonders of His love—
And wonders, and wonders of His Love.

Twelve Days of Christmas

On the First Day of Christmas my true love sent to me
A partridge in a pear tree.

On the Second Day of Christmas my true love sent to me,
Two turtle doves and a partridge in a pear tree.

On the Third Day of Christmas my true love sent to me,
Three French horns, two turtle doves and a partridge in a pear tree.

On the Fourth Day of Christmas my true love sent to me,
Four calling birds, three French horns, two turtle doves and a partridge in a pear tree.

On the Fifth Day of Christmas my true love sent to me,
Five golden rings, four calling birds, three French horns, two turtle doves and a partridge in a pear tree.

On the Sixth Day of Christmas my true love sent to me,
Six geese a-laying, five golden rings, four calling birds, three French horns, two turtle doves and a partridge in a pear tree.

On the Seventh Day of Christmas my true love sent to me,
Seven swans a-swimming, six geese a-laying, five golden rings, four calling birds, three French horns, two turtle doves and a partridge in a pear tree.

On the Eighth Day of Christmas my true love sent to me,
Eight maids a-milking, seven swans a-swimming, six geese a-laying, five golden rings, four calling birds, three French horns, two turtle doves and a partridge in a pear tree.

On the Ninth Day of Christmas my true love sent to me,
Nine ladies dancing, eight maids a-milking, seven swans a-swimming, six geese a-laying, five golden rings, four calling birds, three French horns, two turtle doves and a partridge in a pear tree.

On the Tenth Day of Christmas my true love sent to me,
Ten lords-a-leaping, nine ladies dancing, eight maids a-milking, seven swans a-swimming, six geese a-laying, five golden rings, four calling birds, three French horns, two turtle doves and a partridge in a pear tree.

On the Eleventh Day of Christmas my true love sent to me,
Eleven pipers piping, ten lords-a-leaping, nine ladies dancing, eight maids a-milking, seven swans a-swimming, six geese a-laying, five golden rings, four calling birds, three French horns, two turtle doves and a partridge in a pear tree.

On the Twelfth Day of Christmas my true love sent to me,
Twelve drummers drumming, eleven pipers piping, ten lords-a-leaping, nine ladies dancing, eight maids a-milking, seven swans a-swimming, six geese a-laying, five golden rings, four calling birds, three French horns, two turtle doves and a partridge in a pear tree.

The Night Before Christmas

'Twas the night before Christmas, when all through the house
Not a creature was stirring, not even a mouse.
The stockings were hung by the chimney with care,
In hopes that Saint Nicholas soon would be there.
The children were nestled all snug in their beds,
While visions of sugarplums danced in their heads.
And Mamma in her kerchief, and I in my cap
Had just settled down for a long winter's nap,
When out on the lawn there arose such a clatter,
I sprang from my bed to see what was the matter.

Away to the window I flew like a flash,
Tore open the shutter and threw up the sash.
The moon on the breast of the new-fallen snow
Gave a luster of milky to objects below.
When, what to my wondering eyes should appear,
But a miniature sleigh, and eight tiny reindeer,
With a little old driver so lively and quick,
I knew in a moment it must be Saint Nick.

More rapid than eagles his coursers they came,
And he whistled and shouted and called them by name:
"Now, Dasher! Now, Dancer! Now, Prancer and Vixen!
On, Comet! On, Comet! On, Donner and Blitzen!
To the top of the porch, to the top of the wall!
Now, dash away! Dash away! Dash away, all!"
As dry leaves that before the wild hurricane fly,
When they meet with an obstacle, mount to the sky,
So up to the house-top the coursers they flew
With a sleigh full of toys and Saint Nicholas, too.

And then in a twinkling I heard on the roof
The prancing and pawing of each little hoof.
As I drew in my head and was turning around,
Down the chimney Saint Nicholas came with a bound.
And his clothes were all tarnished with ashes and soot.
A bundle of toys he had flung on his back,
And he looked like a peddler just opening his pack.
His eyes—how they twinkled! His dimples—how merry!
His cheeks were like roses, his nose like a cherry!
His droll little mouth was drawn up like a bow,
And the beard on his chin was as white as the snow.
The stump of a pipe he held tight in his teeth,
And the smoke it encircled his head like a wreath.
He had a broad face and a round little belly
That shook when he laughed, like a bowl full of jelly.

He was chubby and plump, a right jolly old elf,
And I laughed when I saw him in spite of myself.
A wink of his eye and a twist of his head
Soon gave me to know I had nothing to dread.
He spoke not a word but went straight to his work,
And filled all the stockings; then turned with a jerk,
And laying his finger aside of his nose,
And giving a nod, up the chimney he rose.
He sprang to his sleigh, to his team gave a whistle,
And away they all flew like the down of a whistle,
But I heard him exclaim ere he drove out of sight,
Merry Christmas to all and to all a good night!

Good King Wenceslas

Good King Wenceslas looked out
On the Feast of Stephen,
When the snow lay round about,
Deep and crisp and even;
Brightly shone the moon that night,
Tho' the frost was cruel,
When a poor man came in sight,
Catching winter fuel!

"Hiliter, page, and stand by me,
If you know'st it, telling,
Yonder peasant, who is he?
Where and what his dwelling?"
"Sire, he lives a good league hence,
Underneath the mountain;
Right against the forest fence,
By St. Agnes' fountain."

"Bring me flesh and bring me wine,
Bring me pine logs hither;
Thou and I will see him dine,
When we bear him thither." "Page and monarch forth
They went, they went together,
Through the rude wind's wild lament,
And the bitter weather.

"Sire, the night is darker now,
And the wind blows stronger;
Falls my heart, I know not how,
I can go no longer."
"Mark my footsteps, good my page;
Tread thou in them boldly;
Thou shalt find the winter's range
Freeze thy blood less coldly."

In his master's steps he trod,
Where the snow lay dinted,
Heat was in the very sod,
Which the saint had printed.
Therefore, Christian men, be sure,
Wealth or rank possessing,
Ye who now will bless the poor
Shall yourselves find blessing.

Silent Night

Silent night! Holy night!
All is calm, all is bright,
Round yon virgin mother and child,
Holy infant so tender and mild,
Sleep in heavenly peace,
Sleep in heavenly peace.

Silent night! Holy night!
Shepherds quake at the sight!
Glorious stream from heaven afar,
Heavenly hosts sing Alleluia,
Christ, the Saviour is born!
Christ, the Saviour is born!

Silent night! Holy night!
Son of God, love's pure light,
Radiant beams from Thy holy face,
With the dawn of redeeming grace,
Jesus, Lord, at Thy birth,
Jesus, Lord, at Thy birth.

I Saw Three Ships

I saw three ships come sailing in,
On Christmas Day, on Christmas Day;
I saw three ships come sailing in,
On Christmas Day in the morning.

And what was in those ships all three,
On Christmas Day, on Christmas Day;
And what was in those ships all three,
On Christmas Day in the morning?

The Virgin Mary and Christ were there,
On Christmas Day, on Christmas Day;
The Virgin Mary and Christ were there,
On Christmas Day in the morning.

Angels, From the Realms of Glory

Angels, from the realms of glory,
Wing your flight o'er all the earth;
Ye who sang creation's story,
Now proclaim Messiah's birth:
Come and worship,
Worship Christ the new-born King.

Shepherds in the field abiding,
Watching o'er your flocks by night,
God with man is now residing;
Yonder shines the infant light:
Come and worship,
Worship Christ the new-born King.

Sages, leave your contemplations;
Brighten visions beam afar;
See the great Desire of Nations;
Ye have seen his natal star:
Come and worship,
Worship Christ the new-born King.

Frosty the Snowman
Frosty the Snowman was a jolly happy soul,
With a corn cob pipe and a button nose
And two eyes made out of coal.
Frosty the Snowman is a fairy tale, they say,
How he came out of snow but the children know
He was made out of snow but the children know
How he came to life one day.
There must have been some magic
In that old silk hat they found,
For when they placed it on his head,
He began to dance around.
Oh, Frosty the Snowman was alive as he could be
And the children say he could laugh and play
Just the same as you and me.

Silver Bells

City sidewalks, busy sidewalks,
Dressed in holiday style,
In the air there's a feeling of Christmas,
Children laughing, people passing,
Meeting smile after smile
And on every street corner you hear:

Chorus:
Silver Bells, Silver Bells,
It's Christmas time in the city,
Ting-O-Ling, Hear them ring,
Soon it will be Christmas Day.

Strings of street lights, even stop lights
Blink a bright red and green,
As the shoppers rush home with their treasures,
Hear the snow crunch, see the kids hunch,
This is Santa's big scene
And above all the bustle you hear:

We Wish you a Merry Christmas
We wish you a merry Christmas
We wish you a merry Christmas
And a Happy New Year!

Good tidings we bring for you and your kin,
We wish you a merry Christmas
And a Happy New Year!

Now bring us some figgy pudding,
Now bring us some figgy pudding,
Now bring us some figgy pudding,
Now bring some to us here.

Santa Claus is Comin' to Town
You better watch out, you better not cry,
Santa Claus is comin' to town,
He's making a list and checking it twice,
Gonna find out who's naughty and nice,
Santa Claus is comin' to town.
He sees you when you're asleepin',
He knows when you're awake,
He knows if you've been bad or good,
So be good for goodness sake.
Oh! You better watch out,
You better not cry,
You better not pout, I'm telling you why:
Santa Claus is comin' to town.

Then let us all rejoice a-main,
On Christmas Day, on Christmas Day;
Then let us all rejoice a-main,
On Christmas Day in the morning.

Everyone happy-except Habs

By THE CANADIAN PRESS
New York, Edmonton, Winnipeg, St. Louis . . . Everywhere they go in the National Hockey League these days, Montreal Canadiens are making people happy.

Since heading out on the road last week, the defending Stanley Cup champions have lost in the four aforementioned cities. Tonight, in Bloomington, Minn., those loyal to the Minnesota North Stars will be hoping the Canadiens continue their December dive.

A 5-3 loss in St. Louis to the Blues on Tuesday night gave Montreal a rare five defeats in succession.

In the night's other game, New York Islanders edged Colorado Rockies 3-2.

The Canadiens are losers of their last nine road games and their three games under Claude Ruel, who took over headcoaching duties after Bernie Geoffrion quit last week.

"It's not the coach," said Montreal right winger Guy Lafleur. "It's up to the players. The coaching change hasn't made a bit of difference."

The Canadiens' recent string of ineptness doesn't lessen their fearsomeness, however, in the eyes of St. Louis coach Red Berenson. "I'm not concerned with Montreal's problems," Berenson said after his club had notched its second victory of the season over the Canadiens and its first over Montreal in St. Louis since Jan. 27, 1977.

"They still have the fifth best record in the league, and when that team can put together a period like they did in the second period tonight, you're quickly reminded they're still the defending Stanley Cup champs."

After St. Louis jumped out to a quick 2-0 lead in the first period on goals by Mike Zuke and Blair Chapman, the Canadiens tied the contest in the middle session on Pierre Larouche's 23rd and 24th goals of the season while Montreal outshot the Blues 19-4.

The third period, however, belonged to St. Louis as the Blues outshot the Canadiens 15-6. Larry Patey scored unassisted at 3:03 after Montreal's Rejean Houle and Pierre Mondou collided in their own zone, leaving a loose puck while the Blues were killing off a penalty to Zuke. Patey scooped up the puck, faked Montreal goalie Richard Sevigny to the ice and slipped the puck into the unguarded net.

After the Blues' Jack Brownshilde scored with 6:10 remaining, Lafleur made it 4-3 with four minutes left. Brian Sutter added an insurance goal into an empty Montreal net with 44 seconds left to close out the scoring.

At Uniondale, N.Y., the Islanders won by only one goal over a last-place team but goaltender Billy Smith said the club, after a slow start this season, is starting to come around.

"The defence is playing

Gary wins, Leclaire quits

MONTREAL (CP) — Canadian light heavyweight boxing champion Gary Summerhays is looking forward to more fights in Montreal, but such is not the case for his latest victim.

"I don't think I'll fight again," said 24-year-old Jean-Claude Leclaire of Montreal after suffering a ninth-round knockout Tuesday night in a scheduled 12-round bout with Summerhays, who has held the light heavyweight crown since Feb. 12, 1973.

"It's too bad for the people who have helped me, but the guys just aren't there anymore," added Leclaire after he took a standing eight-count and could not answer the bell for the ninth round. For the first seven rounds, the No. 1 contender held his own, but the seasoned Summerhays, who, like his opponent, weighed in at 173 pounds, blocked most of Leclaire's best punches, even though one managed to bloody his nose.

But in the eighth round, the champion rocked Leclaire with a powerful right, and followed it with a solid left, sending him sprawling into the ropes.

The victory boosted Summerhays' career record to 39-16-3.

much better now," said Smith. "We've cut down the giveaways. Earlier, we had 15 or 16 a game. Now it's down to one or two."

By the time Colorado's Lucien DeBlois stole an unwise crossice pass and sent a bullet toward Smith that Rockies defenceman Mike McEwen deflected home, the Islanders had the

OOPS

There was a mistake made in the Monday edition of the Herald, in the sports page article titled "Kitimat Wins on Weekend."

Terrace's Pup Rep team beat the Kitimat Pups 6-5, and not the other way around as reported. Scorers for the Terrace Pups were Kirk Olschefske with two, and Kip Lindsay, Mike Bee, Trevor Shannon and Brad Trudeau each with a goal.

game pretty much in hand.

Bob Bourne cashed in twice in the second period for the Islanders and Mike Bossey got the game-winner 1:44 into the third period.

Kluss takes Orphans

Only one game was played by the Terrace Men's Basketball Association Tuesday night, as Ev's Clippers defaulted their game with All Seasons, leaving Kluss and Sons to beat the Skeena Hotel Orphans 82-59 in the only contest.

Dave Metzmeier led Kluss with 21 points, while Tom Bogue contributed 19.

Willie Harvey netted 18 of the Orphans' points, with Jim Checkley and James Harvey each scoring 17 for the losers.

Next games in the Terrace league are Thursday night at Skeena Junior Secondary School. The Orphans are scheduled to play Ev's, and All Seasons is to meet Kluss and Sons.

KC Kings get a share

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Kansas City Kings got their first taste of champagne last season, when they won their division title. So when they posted their seventh consecutive victory Tuesday night to regain a share of the lead, there was no whooping or hollering.

"I don't think that way and they don't think that way," said coach Cotton Fitzsimmons, whose Kings beat San Diego Clippers 110-96 to move into a tie with Milwaukee Bucks atop the National Basketball Association's Midwest Division at 20-14. The Bucks were idle.

"I think if this was our first time," added Fitzsimmons, "if we hadn't already pulled it off last year, we'd be all excited and jumping around. Now we aren't even thinking about it.

"The only important thing is how we finish."

Scott Wedman scored 28 points for Kansas City, which got off to a 5-11 start but has since won 15 of 18 games. Wedman got eight of his points in a 27-6 spurt that gave the Kings a comfortable 88-63 lead over San Diego late in the third period.

San Diego, which got 25 points from Lloyd Free, came no closer than 14 points in the final period.

In other NBA games, Los Angeles Lakers beat Chicago Bulls 129-118, New York Knicks edged Atlanta Hawks 101-99, Philadelphia 76ers defeated Detroit Pistons 114-102 and Utah Jazz trimmed Cleveland Cavaliers 105-103.

Knicks 101 Hawks 99

Joe Meriweather scored 21 points, grabbed 11 rebounds and blocked five shots as New York built a 14-point lead and then held on to beat Atlanta.

Pup tourney here Dec 27-29

The Terrace Minor Hockey Association will be hosting its annual Pup Division Tournament Dec. 27, 28 and 29.

Teams from Terrace, Kitimat, Prince Rupert, Pringle George and Granisle will be attending the three-day event, with all games to be played in the Terrace arena.

The teams have been split into two divisions for round-robin play. In the A division, teams playing are the Terrace Pup Reps, the Kitimat Pup Reps, the Prince Rupert Pup Reps and Prince George 2. In the B division, teams playing will be the Terrace 11-year-olds, the Kitimat 11's, Prince George 1 and Granisle.

After the round-robin play is finished, inter-divisional playoffs will be held to determine final positions.

In addition to the hockey, a "coaches' showdown" feature will be held between the first and second periods of the final game. Prizes will be awarded to the top coaches in the contest.

Here is the schedule of games for the event:
